

APNS Case Consultation Support Network

APNS is committed to facilitating the networking among psychologists. One way we are doing this is to initiate a Case Consultation Support Network. We are looking for psychologists who are interested in being available for case consultation by other psychologists.

- This service is open to APNS members only.
- Volunteers are asked to provide APNS with information about their expertise and contact information.
- APNS will maintain a list as a resource for APNS members looking for this service.
- If an APNS member psychologist wants to consult with another psychologist on a case, APNS will contact someone on the Consultation List with basic information about the case and the psychologist's contact information.
- If the List participant is available to consult on this case, they would reply directly to the requesting psychologist and together they would work out the details of the consultation.
- Although APNS will assist in connecting psychologists through this service, APNS does not take any responsibility for the arrangements made once the contact has been initiated.
- If you wish to arrange a consultation please contact apns@apns.ca
